

Alexandra Hernandez & the Movie Picker App

Family movie night starts...but agreeing on a movie doesn't.

She finds an app that claims—choose the perfect movie for

They customize movie choices—genres, moods, age ratings.

They customize movie choices—genres, moods, age ratings.

The app analyzes everyone's tastes and makes a choice.

Decision stress gone—family fun begins.

John Johnson sits at his desk, using his smartphone to decide on a film.

He uses an app to search for movies by genre, rating, and release year.

He browses through search results and finds a new thriller that looks interesting.

John Johnson sits at his desk, using his smartphone to decide on a film.

John Johnson critiques another's review of the movie based on his notes.

Back at his desk, he writes a review of the movie based on his notes.

John Johnson sits at his desk, using his smartphone to decide on a film.

He uses an app to search for movies by genre, rating, and release year.

He browses through search results and finds a new thriller that looks interesting.

John Johnson sits at his desk, using his smartphone to decide on a film.

John Johnson critiques another's review of the movie based on his notes.

Back at his desk, he writes a review of the movie based on his notes.

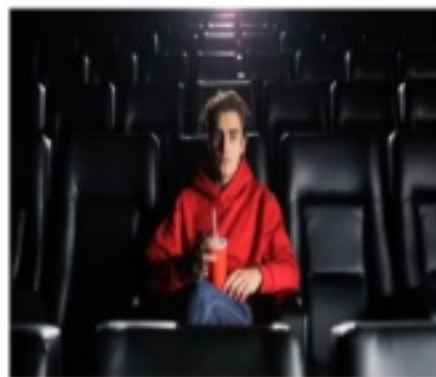

Student is a USC student who has a strong interest in movies and spends much of his free time watching and analyzing films.

Student downloads the app Movie Findr and begins exploring different movie recommendations tailored to his interests.

Student has a strong passion for movies and is determined to watch niche films as possible.

shutterstock.com - 2258422157

Using Movie Findr, Student discovers new movies he has never seen before and easily finds where they are available to watch.

One of Student's friends told him about this app called "movie findr" that helps you find random movies and where to watch them.

Thanks to Movie Findr, Student is able to watch more movies than ever and continues working toward his goal of watching as many films as possible.